THE OSI COUNTERINTELLIGENCE BRIEFING COURSES

Guest Lecturer's Information Sheet

The critique of the first of these sessions shows that the Air Force OSI officers attending were much impressed not only by the substance of the presentations but also by the expertise of the speakers. It is safe to say that we helped ourselves and the students.

Most officers emphasized in their critiques that they would have appreciated even more case-history material and treatment of the basic aspects of operations; especially practical do's and don'ts and the reasons for them.

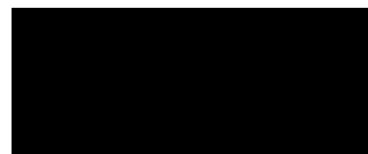

25X1A9a The handouts were very welcome, but most participants still found it necessary to take extensive notes. Speakers who do not wish notes taken on their presentations are requested to ask [REDACTED] to issue the necessary prohibition just before the lecture.

It is clear that the attending officers, who will have a great deal to do with formulating the revisions of OSI doctrine being undertaken by the Air Force, are now much more interested in closer collaboration with the Agency. A book dispatch on this development and ways and means to exploit it is being drafted.

It is suggested that you may wish to invite one or more of the participating officers to visit your office. One speaker invited an officer who had been flown in from a post abroad especially to attend the course to visit him at his office, and found the interchange most profitable.

Thank you for helping us make this course a success.
